STATISTICAL REVIEW

AND MISCELLANEOUS INFORMATION.

The publisher in presenting this annual issue of the DIRECTORY OF SAN FRANCISCO, takes pleasure in referring to its improved typographical appearance. The type adopted renders the volume more convenient in size, and more tasty in style. The canvass for names has been prosecuted with great care and vigilance, and the result as presented may be accepted by the public as a personal and business guide, combining completeness with reliability to as great a degree as is possible in the preparation of such a work in a city where removals, changes, and periodical absentees are so numerous as in San Francisco. The number of references in the volume has largely increased, while the statistical matter of the introductory pages which has been prepared with much care and research also indicates a gratifying growth of the city. The publisher tenders his acknowledgements to the public for the general approval of the results of his efforts to furnish an acceptable and popular Directory.

POPULATION OF THE CITY.—San Francisco appears to have fully maintained its volume of growth during the past year notwithstanding some adverse circumstances and a general complaint of hard times and of prevailing dullness. The truth is that San Francisco is so situated with reference to immigration and trade that more than a single dull season is necessary to interfere materially with her regular growth and advancement. The number of buildings erected during the year is nearly as large as ever before. There is a considerable increase in the number of municipal licenses issued and in the number of men employed in manufactories. To arrive at a reliable estimate of the population one must have a basis of facts from which to calculate. A certain nearly obsolete directory concern of this city estimates in this wise : It takes the census of 1870, then it guesses at a per-centage of gain, which is added from year to year. But as BISHOP'S DIRECTORY is always first issued, and as the figures of the other are usually almost identical, it is fair to infer that this publication guides the other somewhat, in its guessing. We estimate from ascertained facts and make our deductions from figures verified in numerous instances by the official census. The population of the city in January, 1877, was 295,117, of which 265,538 were whites, etc., and 29,979 Chinese. The number of persons under seventeen years of age by the school census July 1, 1876, was 71,436. The number by the school census of 1877 was 80,245 ; increase, 8,809. The ratio of persons under seventeen to the total population is 1 to 3.5, as ascertained by the average of twenty-seven large cities of the Union. Assuming that the increase for the latter half of the year 1877 was equal to that of the first half we have 84,650 as the correct number of persons under seventeen on January 1, 1878, which gives us a white population of 296,275. The Chinese population has remained about stationary, the small excess of arrivals over departures having been offset by deaths and other causes. The population of the city is, therefore, 326,244. The number of references in this Directory is 98,031, which allowing the ratio of references to the total population as 1 to 3½ gives a population of 326,770, agreeing very closely with the estimate based upon the school census. The increase for the year has been a little over 9 per cent.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL.—We present below tables showing the exports of leading articles of California production, and of merchandise and treasure, giving some comparisons with the figures for 1876. The exports of wheat were less than half the amount for the preceding year, but the higher prices obtained brings the value of that cereal exported up to about 70 per cent. of the value exported in 1876. Other articles of domestic production show a decrease, except wine, which shows an increase of about 40 per cent. The production of quicksilver, copper and salt were also considerably in excess of former years. The aggregate of exports of California products will exceed twenty-seven millions of dollars, and exports of merchandise reach nearly twenty-nine and a half millions, a decline in values from 1876 of about four per cent., but an increase in quantity, owing to a reduction in prices of many articles. Exports of treasure reach the large sum of fifty-seven millions six hundred thousand dollars, against forty-nine millions seven hundred and fifty thousand dollars in 1876. Receipts of treasure were seventy-one millions seven hundred thousand dollars, showing an apparent gain to the city in this species of wealth of over fourteen million dollars. Clearing House returns show exchanges to the amount of $517,000,000 for 1877, an increase over 1876 of $23,000,000.

The long continued depression in industry and trade which has prevailed throughout the United States and Europe, has had its legitimate effect upon San Francisco; still, but for the dry season, entailing a failure of crops, the volume of business would have largely increased during the year. Every branch of industry and trade suffered; mining operations were retarded, and immigration was checked. But for this circumstance of local drouth the city of San Francisco and the whole Pacific slope would have prospered abundantly, while depression prevailed elsewhere throughout the world.

Several concerns, improperly styled savings banks, have failed during the year, entailing serious losses upon a portion of the community, that can ill afford such lessons as they have learned thereby. The distrust of our remaining institutions for savings, which to a certain extent prevails, is unfounded, and should be dismissed from the public mind. Long established and honorably conducted, doing business in a safe and legitimate way, the savings banks of San Francisco are entitled to all the confidence they ever enjoyed, which was full and general.

Rates of interest have considerably declined, and a disposition, in view of the abundance of money, and the easy terms of its procurement, will, beyond a doubt, stimulate building, and all other enterprises during the present year.

RECEIPTS OF CUSTOMS.—The cash duties collected on foreign imports for the year 1877 were $6,722,913, and the total customs revenue was $6,779,904. These figures are less by $1,271,765 than those for 1876.

The above table shows a decrease in sales in all sections of the city. The decrease from 1876 in the 50-varas, was $2,161,963, or 29 per cent.; in the 100-varas, $79,953—only a fraction of 1 per cent.; in the city slips and water lots, $1,224,269, or 45 per cent.; in the Mission Addition, $798,743, or 19 per cent.; in the Western Addition, $486,349—about 9 per cent.; and in outside lands, $471,318, or 43 per cent. The decrease in the aggregate of sales, is $5,508,675, or about 23 per cent. It is noticeable that the Mission and Western Additions—portions of the city especially adapted for homes, and improving more rapidly than any other—maintain a showing, both in number and amount of sales, that compares very favorably with those of the preceding year. The number of sales in these two sections was 1,854, as against 2,281 in 1876, the consideration amounting to eight millions of dollars, against nine and a half millions of dollars during the more prosperous season of 1876. Transfers of real estate in those sections are, as a rule, indicative of improvements, and the large volume of sales, during an exceptionally dull year, shows a substantial growth of the resident population.

REAL ESTATE.—The year 1877 opened with a good degree of activity in Real Estate, sales for January amounting to $2,596,000. Had this activity been maintained, sales for the year would have exceeded thirty-one millions. But in February, when it became evident that we were to have a dry season, with a consequent short crop of the cereals, a marked decline in the volume of sales and depression in prices was experienced. The succeeding months of March, April and May make a good showing, sales amounting to nearly seven millions. In the meantime business failures were alarmingly frequent and disastrous, and their effect became apparent in a falling off of sales in June to $1,245,000. The aggregate of sales for the first half of the year was $12,095,027. The transactions in July were less in amount than for any previous month for many years, aggregating only $788,000. The whole latter half of the year was marked by extreme quietude, the sales for the entire period reaching $6,454,964. No general break in prices has occurred, but a gradual toning down of demands, especially for high priced residence property, was observable. Choice business property—that is, improved property, paying a good rental at the present time—is as firm as ever. In this connection, it is noticeable that the great majority of property owners, whom urgent demands for money would lead either to sell or mortgage their realty, have preferred the latter course, as the following table showing the mortgages and releases of the year, and for which we are indebted, as for other valuable statistics, to Magee's "Real Estate Circular," will show:

While the sales of the year aggregate eighteen and a half millions, the mortgages reach the large sum of nearly twenty-four and a half millions, an excess over the amount released of nearly eleven millions. Much of the money obtained by mortgage of real estate has, under the stimulating effects of lower rates of interest, been invested in improvements, though it is probable that the largest portion was required to meet the exigencies of the times. This heavy mortgaging process is an indirect illustration of the supreme confidence in real estate which is felt by all classes, throughout all the vicissitudes of this somewhat peculiarly constituted commercial and financial metropolis.

Of the outlook for 1878, Magee's "Circular" says: "No one would have believed a year ago that real estate sales would have held out so well or prices remained so firm, had they known that a dry season and the fearful crash in stocks, which subsequently occured, were coming. It is not matter for surprise at all that the sales were smaller last year and that prices did not advance, but the wonder is that larger reductions did not occur. The events of the year 1877 clearly show that San Francisco real estate is in a most healthy condition, and that a fall in it, in any general sense, is a thing not to be apprehended even in the event of 1878 being another dry year." To which we may add that all apprehensions that 1878 may prove a droughty season on the Pacific Slope is at the present writing happily dispelled by most plenteous rains throughout the length and breadth of the land.

BUILDING IMPROVEMENTS.—During the year 1877 new water connections were formed by the Spring Valley Water Company to the number of 1,473, representing, according to Magee's "Real Estate Circular" 1,593 buildings. We append a list of a considerable number, accurate details of which have been secured. The list, owing to the impracticability of finding owners or builders, is incomplete, but is representative in its character. A perusal of it will correct a somewhat general impression that the city is not progressing with the rapidity of former years. The list enumerates one hundred and fifty-three buildings, costing $4,047,500

The average cost each of the remaining 1,455 buildings may be estimated at $2,000 2,880,000

MUNICIPAL STATISTICS.—The present assessed valuation of the City of San Francisco is $254,740,200, of which $191,845,560 is classed as real estate and improvements, and $62,894,640 as personal property. The real estate roll shows a small increase over that of 1876, while the personal property roll shows a considerable decrease, which the Assessor attributes to the prevailing business depression, the great decline in mining stocks and the partial failure of the crops. The bonded indebtedness of the city at the close of the fiscal year was $4,322,500, about equally divided between six and seven per cents. Against this debt there is a sinking fund on hand of $735,386 46. The floating debt is of a trifling amount. The rate of taxation for the current year was considerably less than that for the previous year, having been reduced from 2.12½ to 1.83. The debt of the city, less the amount on hand in the sinking fund, is not quite $11 per capita. The debt of New York is $140 per capita, and that of most Eastern cities is far larger than that of San Francisco.

STREET IMPROVEMENTS.—A larger amount was expended for work upon the streets during 1877 than in any previous year. The length of sewers constructed was 103,136 feet, or nearly 20 miles. The number of miles of sewers in the city is 110. There has been 1,078,114 square feet of pavement laid, mostly of granite and basalt blocks. The entire cost to owners of property for street work done during the year was $1,862,194 81, of which $1,315,255 78 was for permanent improvements. Sixteen and two-fifths miles of plank side-walks were laid besides 64,643 square feet of macadamized and 45,509 square feet of asphaltum side-walks.

As the licenses in the above lists are taken out for quarterly periods, it follows that each of the above numbers represent four times the average number of persons engaged in each occupation.

This report shows a very handsome increase over the previous year, an unexpected result considering the dullness of the times.

The number of certificates of citizenship issued during the year was 3,447; number for the previous year, 1,566; increase, 1,881.

The number of marriage licenses issued during the year was 2,488; an increase of 24 over the previous year.

The number of names upon the Great Register on July 1st, 1877, was 41,800.

The number of deeds recorded during the fiscal year was 6,353; of mortgages, 3,411; and of releases of mortgages, 2,037.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS.—The school census, taken on the 30th of June, 1877, showed an unprecedented increase in the number of youths under seventeen years of age. A very gratifying increase in the attendance at the schools is also reported.

The estimated revenue for the year 1878 is, including balance on hand, $915,695. The estimated expenditures are of the same amount, of which $98,395 is for the erection of new buildings.

PRODUCTION OF PRECIOUS METALS.—The yield of precious metals west of the Missouri river for the year 1875, 1876 and 1877, as furnished by John J. Valentine, General Superintendent of Wells, Fargo & Co's Express, was as follows:

	1875.	1876.	1877.
Gold	$41,745,100	$44,328,000	$46,129,547
Silver	34,043,900	41,536,700	47,206,957
Lead, etc	5,100,000	5,040,000	5,085,250
Total	$80,889,000	$90,904,700	$98,421,754

Increase over 1876, $7,517,054, equal to 8¼ per cent. There has been a constant and steady gain in the production of the mines since 1873, as follows:

1874	$2,142,532	1876	$10,015,700
1875	6,488,012	1877	7,517,054

It is the opinion of the best authorities that the production will continue to increase from year to year for several years to come. A gradual increase may be looked for in the productions of Utah, Colorado and the Northern territories, and a rapid development of rich mines in Arizona, stimulated by railroad connection with San Francisco, while California will probably hold its own. Any decrease that may occur in the present bonanzas of the Comstock lode will be more than offset by gains from the several sources mentioned.

The following is the production for 1877 by States and Territories:

California	$18,174,716
Nevada	51,580,290
Oregon	1,181,997
Washington	92,226
Idaho	1,832,495
Montana	2,644,912
Utah	8,113,755
Colorado	7,913,549
New Mexico	379,010
Arizona	2,388,622
Dakota	1,500,000
Mexico	1,432,992
British Columbia	1,177,190
Total	$98,421,754

COINAGE AT THE SAN FRANCISCO MINT.—During the year 1877 the coinage at the U. S. Mint, San Francisco, was as follows:

Increase in Gold coinage over 1876	$3,070,500
Increase in Silver coinage over 1876	7,068,000
Total Increase	$11,067,500

This amount is the largest ever coined in one year by any mint in the world. The coinage of the Philadelphia Mint for 1877, was $18,339,414, and of the Carson Mint, $4,020,020, making, with San Francisco, a grand total for the United States of $72,131,434, of which the San Francisco Mint supplied more than two-thirds.

MANUFACTURES.—From the table of the City and County Assessor we gather some interesting statistics. The number of manufacturing establishments in the city is 718, employing 26,583 hands, including men, women and children. The total value of productions of these manufactories for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1877, is given at $60,267,767.

ARRIVALS AND DEPARTURES.—As California is accessible to immigrants only by sea and one great line of railway, her growth can be quite accurately determined by the record of arrivals and departures. The largest immigration was in 1875, when 108,700 persons arrived and but 43,200 departed, leaving a net increase of 65,500. This was the season when the comfortably fixed farmer at the East sold his possessions to purchase in a land where there is no winter, and where the cultivator of the soil is supposed to receive larger returns for less work than elsewhere on the continent. Many came and prospected only to learn that the lands of the State are, to a great extent, held in large tracts. Many came with the ability to purchase small farms, but found it difficult to secure suitable tracts, and returned spreading wide the story of the monopolized State, to the utter discouragement of their neighbors who had also designed emigrating. Hence the year 1876 showed a marked falling off in immigration. 1877 was heralded abroad as a dry year on the Pacific slope, and the tidings had the effect to still further check the tide that was flowing towards us. The number of arrivals in 1877 was 17,831 by sea and 47,435 by rail, a total of 65,266. The departures were 15,725 by sea and 31,253 by rail, total 46,9781; leaving a net increase for the year of 18,288. Of this gain 16,188 are whites, and only 2,100 Mongolians. This small accession of Asiatics was probably nearly if not quite offset by deaths among the resident population of about one hundred thousand of that nationality in the State

CLIMATE OF SAN FRANCISCO.—The tables annexed are from the records of Mr. Thomas Tennant, kept by him since 1849. They give the Rain Table, with the number of rainy days in each month and season, from 1866 to 1877; a table of mean temperature for each month and year; and also tables showing the extremes of heat and cold during the same period, which will be sufficient to give a very fair idea of our climate. The standard thermometers with which the observations are made, are placed in position to face the north, and be perfectly free from the influence of any direct or reflected heat. It will be seen by reference to these tables, that the average yearly temperature of San Francisco during the period indicated, is 50° 3′. The hottest day was in June, 1877, when the thermometer reached 99 degrees. The lowest point indicated was at daylight on the morning of December 28th, 1867—20 degrees; but these extremes occur so seldom as to be considered remarkable. The general routine of the seasons is as follows: Commencing with the rainy season, which generally sets in fairly during November, continues through December, abating somewhat in January, during which month we are apt to have some frosty weather; February, March and April are pleasant, with occasional showers and a few hot days; in May, the sea breeze begins with moderation and continues more briskly during June, July and August, moderating in September, during which month the warmest weather usually occurs, extending sometimes into October.

The total number of letters, postal cards and newspapers delivered by the carriers for 1877, was 16,583,774—an increase of 1,082,813, equal to 7 per cent. A much larger number of boxes are retained in the San Francisco Post Office than in Eastern cities, hence the postal delivery returns show a relatively smaller volume of packages handled by carriers.

RULES AND REGULATIONS.

Any package of merchandise carried by hand on to any wharf or landing (except domestic supplies for private individuals, intended for consumption and not for sale, weighing less than 100 pounds), 12½ cents.

Milk wagons, butcher wagons, bakers', ice and laundry wagons, on their daily rounds, may pass free of toll.

Empty packages returned to the wharf or any vessel pass free of toll.

No toll will be charged on donkey engines or stevedores' tools, going on to any wharf for the purpose of discharging or loading cargo.

Loads must be estimated either by weight or measurement, as will yield the largest revenue — 2,000 pounds or 40 cubic feet to constitute a ton, excepting coal, pig iron, asphaltum and stone, for which 2,240 pounds will be a ton.

Tolls must be paid on each load, as delivered or received. Provided, however, that owners or consignees may pay in advance the tolls upon entire cargoes, at schedule rates.

All merchandise landed upon wharves from vessels, and taken from thence in lighters or other vessels, or warehoused without drayage, must pay 6¼ cents per ton wharfage.

All merchandise received or discharged from vessels lying at the wharves or within that portion of the harbor subject to the jurisdiction of the Board of the State Harbor Commissioners, into or from lighters or other vessels, must pay five cents per ton, and bricks, five cents per thousand. Lumber discharged into the water, must pay five cents per thousand feet, and piles three cents each. All timber and piles discharged into the slips, must be removed within twenty-four hours from the time of such discharge.

All merchandise landed upon the wharves must be removed the same day landed; provided, however, that by the consent of the Wharfinger, and at the risk of the owner, it may remain from day to day, subject to an additional toll for wharfage for every forty-eight hours, or part thereof.

All merchandise remaining on the wharves after the owner, agent or consignee has been notified to remove the same, will be removed by the wharfinger at the expense and risk of the owner.

Vessels and their owners are liable for dockage, and all merchandise is liable for tolls and may be held by the wharfinger to secure the payment thereof.

No load exceeding five tons shall be admitted on or off the wharves, except single packages.

Driving on any wharf or thoroughfare faster than a walk, prohibited, and non-observance of this rule will subject the offender to prosecution for misdemeanor.

Parties holding part of the water front, under lease from the Board of State Harbor Commissioners, are obligated to charge and collect the above rates, and any person violating said rules will forfeit his lease.
